NOTES:

Entry & Exit Requirements: Most visa categories cannot be extended in Kazakhstan. Exceptions to this rule are student visas, visas for medical treatment, visas for permanent residents of Kazakhstan, and work visas, which can be extended in Kazakhstan up to the expiration date of the holder's work permit, a separate document issued only in Kazakhstan. Business visas can be extended domestically if the traveler is in Kazakhstan at the invitation of the Government of Kazakhstan, a diplomatic mission, or international organization in Kazakhstan.

Registration of U.S. passports is conducted at the same time as the issuance of the visa. At airports and border posts, Kazakhstani immigration officers present travelers with a white registration card valid for 3 months. US citizens must retain this card throughout their stay in Kazakhstan. Two stamps on the card indicate that the traveler is registered. If the card contains only one stamp, the traveler must register with the Migration Police. Extensions are done through the Migration Police.

New visa rules went into effect March 1, 2010, regarding missionaries and faith based non-governmental organizations. Visitors to Kazakhstan engaging in missionary work or other religious activities must register with the Department of Justice office in the region (Akimat) where the activities will take place. This applies even if the religious activities are not the primary purpose of the visit. Attendance at a religious service does not itself require registration, however participation in the delivery of the service may. U.S. citizens have been fined and deported from Kazakhstan for addressing a congregation, leading prayers, and performing religious music without proper religious worker registration.

Some HIV/AIDS restrictions exist for visitors to and foreign residents of Kazakhstan. Visitors applying for a work or residency permit, required for U.S. citizens who wish to spend more than 6 months in Kazakhstan, must submit negative HIV test results with their application to the Migration Police in the city where they intend to work or reside. The results must be less than three months old.

Safety & Security: US citizens are encouraged to enroll in the Smart Traveler Enrollment Program, to stay current with the latest safety and security announcements dispersed by the Embassy in your area. Your enrollment can also help the Department of State reach your family and friends in case of emergency.

Islamic extremist groups are active in the region thus US citizens should exercise caution and be mindful of surroundings. Identification checks by the police are common practice. U.S. visitors must produce either a passport or an Embassy-certified copy thereof upon request. Police are not required to demonstrate probable cause or reasonable suspicion to initiate ID checks. Given concerns with crime, the U.S. Embassy has an agreement with the Kazakhstani government to allow U.S. citizens to carry a certified copy of their passport and visa rather than the original.

Health: Tuberculosis vaccine is advised. US citizen residents requiring prescription medications or specific brand-name medicines should bring sufficient supplies of medications and not rely on local availability. Basic medical supplies, including disposable needles, anesthetics, and antibiotics can be in short supply. Elderly travelers and those with pre-existing health problems may be at risk due to inadequate medical facilities. Most resident U.S. citizens travel to Western Europe for serious medical treatment.

Currency: Kazakhstan remains largely a cash economy. Traveler's checks and credit cards are not widely accepted, except at large hotels and restaurants catering to the international community. U.S. dollars can easily be exchanged for the local currency (Tenge) authorized currency exchanges. All denominations of U.S. currency except $1 bills must be new series (large portraits) and must have been issued after 2000 and be in good condition (not worn or torn and without any writing or marks).

Fumigation of Wood Packing Materials: As of this posting Kazakhstan does not require the ISPM15 standard for wood packaging material (WPM).
