NOTES:

Entry & Exit Requirements: One must register with the Office of Immigration, Naturalization, and Foreign Citizens in Ulaanbaatar within seven days of arriving in Mongolia. The Government of Mongolia passed a law requiring foreign citizens to carry their residency permit card or passport at all times while in Mongolia. A fine will be imposed if you do not have the required identification if you are stopped or questioned for any reason. Stays longer than 90 days require an exit visa, also obtained from Office of Immigration.

Safety & Security: US citizens are encouraged to enroll in the Smart Traveler Enrollment Program, to stay current with the latest safety and security announcements dispersed by the Embassy in your area. Your enrollment can also help the Department of State reach your family and friends in case of emergency.

Crime: Street crime is common in Mongolia, particularly in Ulaanbaatar, the capital. Inter-racial couples are targeted for assault. The perpetrators usually target foreign men with local women. These assaults range from organized attacks by nationalist groups to spontaneous incidents in bars. U.S. Embassy has received an increased number of reports of apparently xenophobic attacks against foreign nationals. These attacks occurred without provocation, and robbery was not the motive. Attackers targeted the victim(s) based solely on their ethnicity or perceived foreign nationality. Some of these attacks were directed against U.S. citizens. Additionally, nationalist groups frequently mistake Asian-Americans for ethnic Chinese or Koreans and may attack without warning or provocation. Asian-Americans should exercise caution at all times when walking the streets of Ulaanbaatar.

Currency: In Ulaanbaatar, some hotels accept travelers' checks in U.S. dollars, and several banks convert travelers' checks to dollars or Mongolian currency, known as Tugrugs. You can use credit cards at a variety of hotels, restaurants, and shops in the city. Cash advances against credit cards are available at some commercial banks. Very few ATMs exist outside of Ulaanbaatar the capital; cash is the only method of payment.

Health: Some HIV/AIDS entry restrictions exist for visitors to and foreign residents of Mongolia. For additional information, contact the Embassy of Mongolia before you travel. Sanitation in some restaurants, particularly outside of Ulaanbaatar, is inadequate. One should drink bottled water and use other routine safety measures to protect one's health. Severe air pollution is a serious problem during the winter months, and travelers with breathing or other health problems should plan accordingly. Infectious diseases, such as plague and meningococcal meningitis, are present at various times of the year. Tuberculosis is an increasingly serious health concern in Mongolia. Medical facilities in Mongolia are very limited and do not meet most Western standards, especially for emergency health care. Doctors and hospitals usually expect immediate payment in cash for health services.

Fumigation of Wood Packing Materials: As of this posting Mongolia does not impose ISPM15 regulations for wood packaging material (WPM).
