NOTES

Entry & Exit Requirements: A visa is required if staying more than 90 days and must be acquired prior to departure. The U.S. maintains unofficial relations with the people on Taiwan through the American Institute in Taiwan (AIT), a private nonprofit corporation, which performs U.S. citizen and consular services similar to those at embassies. All U.S. citizens should always ensure that passports and important personal papers are in order in the event it becomes necessary to leave the country quickly for any reason. If you are male between the ages of 18 and 36 and were born in Taiwan or have ever held a Taiwan passport, you should be aware that you may be subject to compulsory military service in Taiwan, even if you are a U.S. citizen and have entered Taiwan on your U.S. passport. If you are concerned this may affect your travel to Taiwan, please contact the nearest TECO office in the United States before visiting Taiwan to determine whether you are subject to the military service requirement.

Safety & Security: US citizens are encouraged to enroll in the Smart Traveler Enrollment Program, to stay current with the latest safety and security announcements dispersed by the Embassy in your area. Your enrollment can also help the Department of State reach your family and friends in case of emergency.

Crime: Overall crime is low in Taiwan. High crime areas are namely barbershops, massage parlors and nightclubs. They are typically run by criminals. These establishments do not advertise, and a casual passerby would not know the type of establishment as interiors are not viewable. US citizens have been assaulted in such places. In several parts of Taiwan, incidents of purse snatching by thieves on motorcycles have been reported.

Penalties for possession of, use of, or trafficking in illegal drugs in Taiwan are severe, and convicted offenders can expect long jail sentences and heavy fines. Taiwan law also provides for the death penalty for certain violent crimes and drug offenses.

Health: Taiwan requires all arriving passengers to have their body temperatures scanned with an infrared thermal apparatus. Only passengers showing symptoms of communicable diseases are required to fill out the Communicable Disease Survey Form. If you exhibit symptoms, you may be required to give an onsite specimen and/or follow up with local health authorities.

Dengue fever is on the rise, particularly in Kaohsiung Municipality.

Health facilities in Taiwan are adequate for routine and emergency medical treatment. Physicians are well trained and many have studied in the United States and speak English. State-of-the-art medical equipment is available at many clinics and hospitals.

Some HIV/AIDS entry restrictions exist for visitors to and foreign residents of Taiwan. Those applying for resident visas – usually those who plan to work or join family – must obtain a health certificate that will indicate if the applicant is HIV positive. If the resident visa applicant is HIV positive, Taiwan authorities will likely deny the resident visa. Taiwan authorities are likely to require people who test positive for HIV to leave Taiwan at their own expense, even though Taiwan law does not require authorities to deport people who are HIV positive. Verify this information with TECRO before travel.

Fumigation of Wood Packing Materials:

Effective July 1st 2008, importation of shipments containing wood packing materials must be in accordance with ISPM 15 requirements and are required to have the wood fumigation mark ISPM 15 and IPPC logo.
